Volume Fifty-One

As we signed in
To yet another year,
Our first sight
Before entering the
Beckoning doors:

THE WALL

Devoid of all color,
It awaited
The first strokes
Of the brush
To bring life.

ICE

EAGLES

As the year progressed,
Each person
Whether in academics,
Athletics,
Or organizations,
Everyone added a bit
Of individuality.
Together
These strokes filled
The wall of 1987.

A Day In The Lives Of . . .

— Daily American

Holly Lape Shines For Homecoming

On a cool, breezy October night under the lights of the Eagle football stadium throngs of people gathered on the newly constructed aluminum bleachers to see the Eagles take on Penn Cambria. Somerset's team played hard, but lost by one point. However, Penn Cambria's 3-2 victory failed to dampen the spirits of an enthusiastic crowd who saw Holly Lape crowned the 1987 Homecoming Queen in halftime ceremonies.

Holly, escorted by Jack Shafer, reigned over her court, which included Kris Benini and her escort Scott Zarefoss, Tina Betta on the arm of Bill Hoffman, Carolyn Gough with Randy Christner, Terry Ong squired by Brad Cole and Jill Walker escorted by Randy Chabol.

After the game Queen Holly and her court were guests of honor at the annual Homecoming dance.

Maxwell Smart Fights

KAOS Forces To Save The Planet

"Sorry, wrong number," exclaimed Maxwell Smart (Bob McElligott) after alerting the Pentagon for a . . . fishbowl?!?

The Class of 1987 presented its play Get Smart by Christopher Seigel. Twenty-seven seniors performed on November 20 and 21. Audience response proved that this play had by no means reached a wrong number.

Main characters Agent 86 (McElligott) and Agent 99 (Annette Miller) packed the play with non-stop humor. Together these two battled with KAOS and Mr. Big (Dave Onstead) in a bus station, the Hotel Crambly and the Fortune Cookie Club. Evil scientists, irate college students, sneaky dragon ladies, big tough body guards, old married couples, Scandinavian royalty and four dingy blondes cavorted in wild and wonderful antics.

Top: Brad Keim, Becky Weible and Dave Reiley have an intramural competition with Mr. Phillippi as moderator and Mr. Baer as time keeper. Bottom: League Champions Tony Zanoni, Becky Weible, Coach Ottis Baer, Captain David Reiley, Brad Keim, Coach Dale Phillippi, Garth Hauger and Dave Henry.

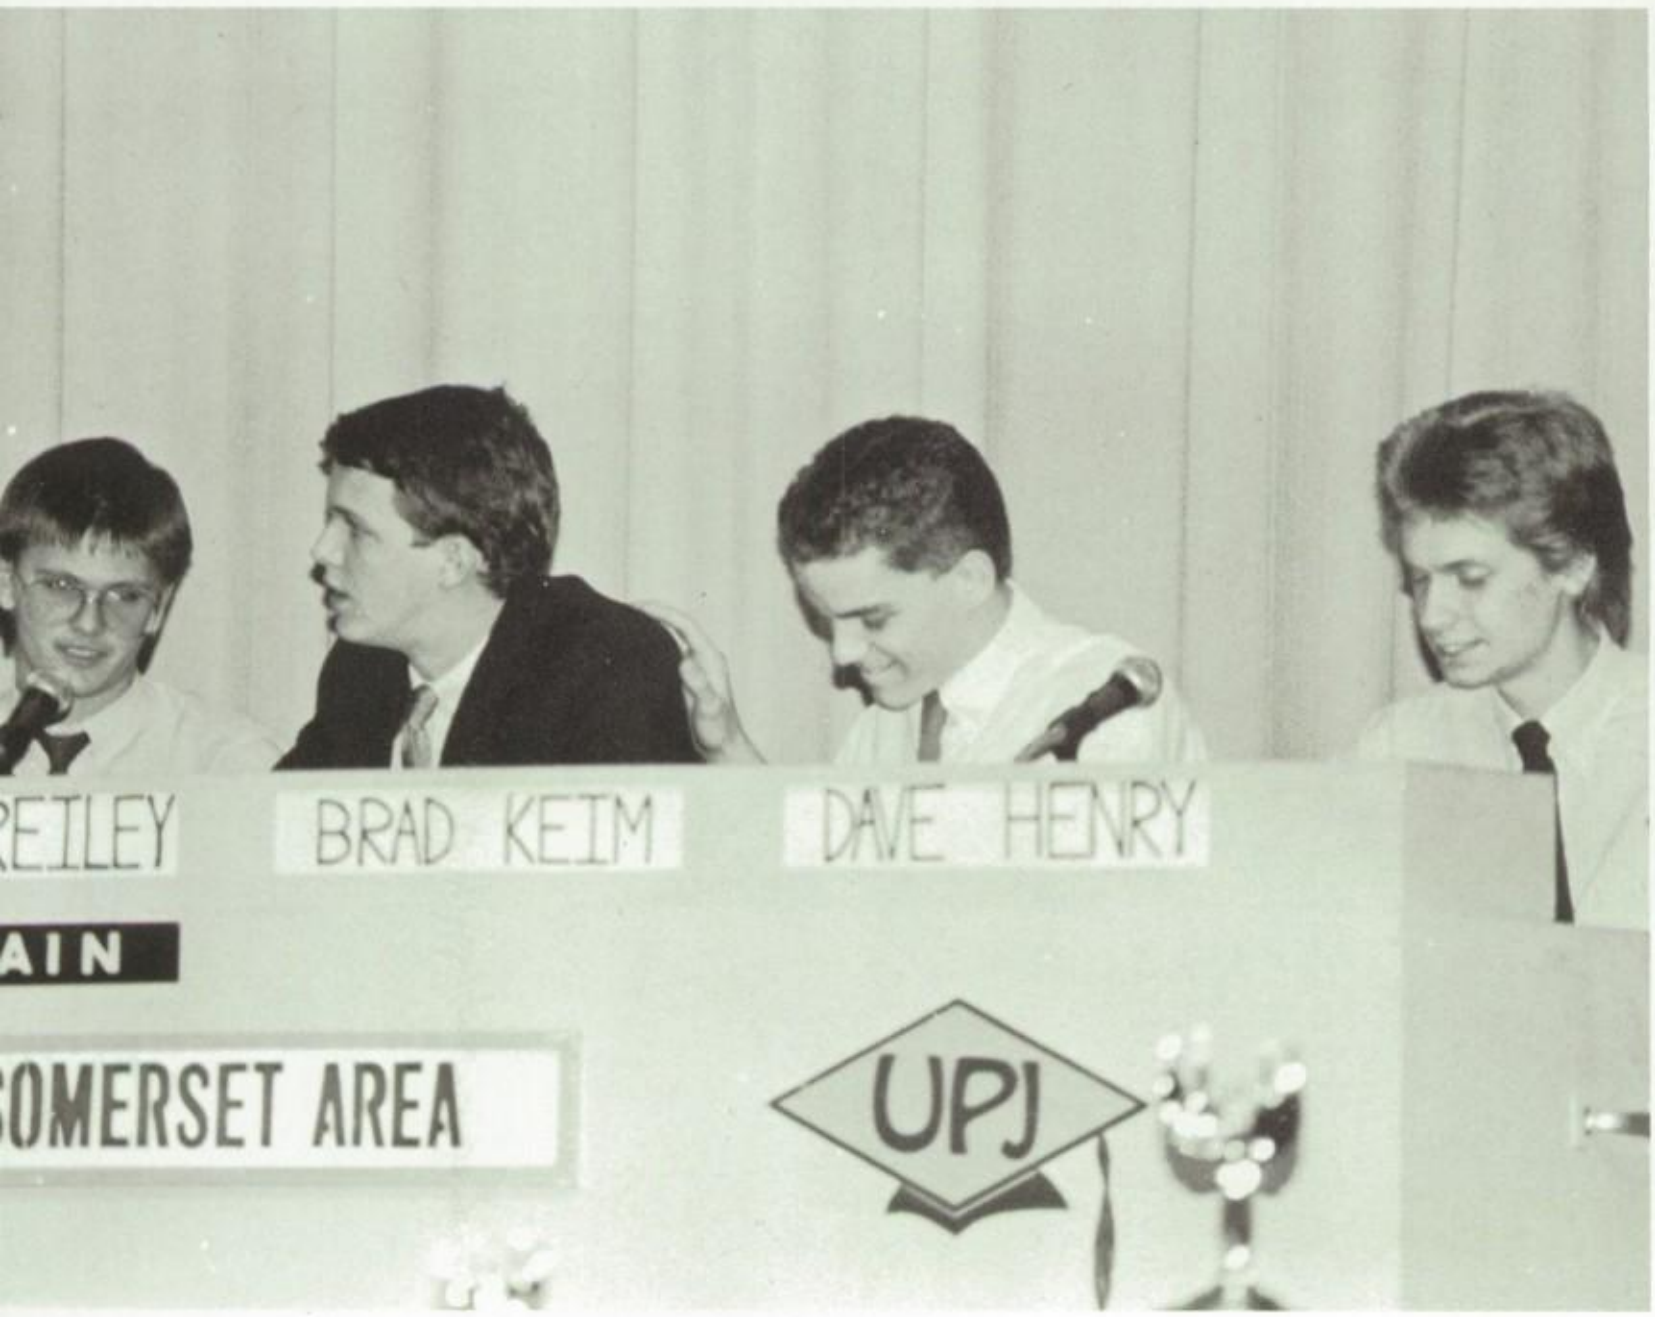
Quiz Team Tops League Tourney

Guided by rookie coaches Mr. Dale Phillippi and Mr. Ottis Baer, the Scholastic Quiz team recorded its first championship season. The new advisors kept members sharp while adding to a funfilled three months. Two-year letterman David Reiley led the team as captain. Brad Keim participated as senior representative. Juniors Tony Zanoni, Becky Weible, Dave Henry and Garth Hauger rounded out the squad.

A twelve-team roster competed in four rounds of the double-elimination tournament. The fifth and final night of competition pitted undefeated Westmont against Forest Hills, Windber and Somerset, who had each suffered one loss.

After blowing away Forest Hills and Windber, Somerset defeated Westmont in a do-or-die match. Their victory left Somerset and Westmont tied with one loss apiece. In the final confrontation of the season the Eagles emerged as league champions by defeating Westmont 230-150.



Top: Intense training for Scholastic Quiz matches includes a strict diet of potato chips and chocolate milk. Bottom: Team members Tony Zanoni, Brad Keim and Dave Henry share in the satisfaction of the correct answer Captain Dave Reiley has just announced.

Beauty Overtakes Winter Gym Scene

Susan Sujansky Is Second Runne

Senior girls nominated by their homerooms vied for a spot in the Maple Princess contest. After deliberation the Class of 1987 chose ten girls as their contestants.

On November 3, after three weeks of rehearsals, the contestants felt prepared for their big night. Judges rated the girls on a personal interview at a dinner before the contest, poise and appearance in a promenade with evening gowns, a talent presentation and impromptu questions asked by Master of Ceremonies Mr. Harold Showman.

After performing a beautiful piano solo and discussing her favorite rock group, her opinion of Ronald Reagan's presidency and her knowledge of the maple industry, Susan Sujansky reigned as Somerset's Maple Princess.

Sue then went on to represent Somerset in the Maple Queen contest in March, where she won the spot of second Runner-Up to Pennsylvania Queen Maple out of ten contestants.

Up To Pa. Maple Queen

Top: Lara Gindlesperger, Lynette Lazer and Trina Burkett display their neo-punk dress style. Left: They call it "crack" on the East Coast. This refined, smokable form of cocaine may be the most addictive narcotic ever sold on the streets of America. Bottom: Nikes, Reeboks and now Converse Chuck Taylor basketball sneakers are hitting the halls of Somerset High.

Somerset High's World Is Part Of The Whole State, Country, Planet

Board Provides Extra Classrooms

Ongoing controversy over the hiring of a head football coach kept public interest high at school board meetings all winter and spring. Board athletic committee members interviewed numerous candidates, finally settling on their choice, whom the board elected over outspoken opposition from parents, players and community members. However, the newly named coach was not willing to accept the position unless he also received a teaching position. Complications arose when the administration announced their unwillingness to create a position for him, there being none available through resignations or retirements. As a result, Mr. David Maize, an experienced football and track coach who was also a district teacher, became the 1987-88 head football coach.

A more crucial and far-reaching personnel change saw the retirement of Superintendent Grant Sloan, who had guided Somerset Area Schools for ten years. Through a three-step selection process involving thirty-five applicants for the position, Dr. Dennis M. Afton of Brookville became Somerset's new superintendent on July 1.

Academics

English Studies Provide Variety

Somerset students chose from general, vocational, business or academic English courses.

Sophomore academic students worked on a variety of writing. They delivered persuasive speeches, read Macbeth and also studied a novel. In addition to composition, English III students continued Shakespeare's work by reading Hamlet. Their principal speech project was a demonstration. Senior academic English students enjoyed reading a novel, studying Shakespeare's Othello, giving speeches and writing extensively.

Business English students wrote compositions every other week, while practicing language skills essential to office personnel. The vo-tech and general English curriculum involved reading stories, writing compositions and studying word usage.

Another interesting aspect of the English curriculum was the literature program, including American literature, English literature, drama seminar and novel seminar. Students in these classes did intensive reading, evaluating and writing about famous literary works.

Speech/Theater students put their theory into practice in a wide range of speech and dramatic assignments. They climaxed their year by presenting an assembly program for the student body.

Foreign Language Opens World

Mastery of a foreign language is much more than being able to converse in a different vocabulary; it is a cultural experience. Whether the language is French, German or Spanish, it is a representation of the people and the history of a country. Through vocabulary lessons, conversations and writing assignments students acquired a familiarity with the language. Rigorous grammar drills and exercises sharpened student response and refreshed the repertoire. To appreciate the subtleties of a language a deeper journey into the customs and history of a people was necessary. This study added interest while lending authenticity to a speaker's conversation. A foundation in foreign language studies is becoming more necessary as the interaction and communication between countries in the world is growing. A foreign language enables us all to adapt to these changes. In our understanding of a language our understanding of the world in general grows.

Math Competitions Add Incentive

A three-student math team defended our school's first place title this year at the Indiana University of Pennsylvania Mathematics Competition on March 28. Involving more than twenty area schools, the competition comprised a 110-minute eighty-question test. Another math competition, the Annual High School Mathematics Examination, challenged sixty Somerset students. This exam, given all across the United States and Canada, consisted of thirty questions requiring mathematical aptitude.

The math curriculum offered a selection of courses designed to meet the needs of all students. Technical math gave training in algebra, geometry and other math necessary for technical careers. Consumer math covered insurance, banking, investments and taxes. Vocational math included basic math, geometry and algebra, while general math stressed practical word problems.

Algebra, geometry, trigonometry, analytic geometry and calculus aided academic students in preparation for college. Many students chose to double up with two simultaneous math courses to enhance their math backgrounds.

Science Students Keep Pace With

Physics students reasoned out friction, force and energy concepts along with work in the lab before their leap to college. Biochemistry class members found their skills challenged not only by in-class work, but by long hours of individual work on their own.

Juniors polished their skills in chemistry, dealing with stoichiometry, gas laws and density, which required the completion of many labs concerning these topics. They also learned to solve problems and calculate the myriad possibilities of chemical combinations.

Sophomores tackled problems of the natural sciences, including different life forms, through observation in addition to taking notes on class lectures. Future medical students got a head start with anatomy, studying the circulatory, and respiratory systems as well as muscle and skeletal development.

Somerset's extensive computer course prepared students in such areas as word processing, programming and graphics.

Econ Simulations Teach Finance

Before students graduate from Somerset High School, they have covered World Cultures II, American Culture II, and problems of democracy/economics in the Social Studies Department. Students had an opportunity to choose college preparatory, general or vo-tech sections.

World Cultures II treated the history of the modern world, including the post-World War II era. American Culture II classes reviewed the Civil War and reconstruction era, continuing with major political, economic and social issues of United States history.

Somerset seniors had a combination course which included problems of democracy and economics, each one semester in length. Students dealt with issues important to them as citizens and also got a taste of what goes on in the world of finance. Every Friday Mr. Henry Cook, vice-president of Somerset Trust Company, gave Honors Economics students in-depth lectures concerning economics and the American banking system.

Full Course Loads Keep Business

This year's business courses prepared students for the working world. In office procedures students acquired a broad general background of fundamental business practices. Typing students concentrated on learning the keyboard, then developing speed and accuracy. Using the word processor allowed for greater flexibility. Shorthand, notehand and transcription students concentrated on spelling and vocabulary building. Learning how to journalize entries and post them into proper ledgers was a basic responsibility for accounting students. In addition to class work, sales/consumer ed students organized yearbook sales, patron listings and senior magazine sales.

Advanced business students participated in two work experience weeks during the year. They spent time in area businesses and offices learning how to apply their classroom skills in an on-the-job environment.

This year the business department purchased Canon typewriters, which developed skills previously learned.

Shops Vie In Drives For Food

Somerset Vocational Technical School offered twenty-two different occupational training fields, where classes gained first-hand experience in careers of their choice.

Students enrolled at Vo-Tech met on an alternating schedule throughout the school year, one week at Vo-Tech and one week at their home schools. Career offerings included welding, cosmetology, data processing, auto diesel, horticulture and forestry. Many other programs appealed to varied interests of the students. The fields that Vo-Tech had to offer gave many students a start in careers which became their life work.

Somerset students at Vo-Tech had a unique opportunity to meet students attending other schools in Somerset County. They also had the chance to participate in special functions sponsored by various departments at Vo-Tech, including food drives, candy sales and holiday dances. The food drives, sponsored by individual shops, were a basis for competition that raised team spirit while bringing help to the community.

These and other special functions stressed individual achievement as well as the ability to cooperate with others. This made everyone who participated a winner.

Health, Driver Ed Emphasize Safety

Health, highway safety and road training helped promote awareness of potential health problems and safety hazards among students.

Health education stressed prevention of health problems. Units studied included infectious and noninfectious diseases, stress, alcohol, tobacco, drugs, consumer safety and nutrition. After informing students of facts, instructors Mrs. Ruth Coleman and Mr. Robert Sembower encouraged them to make their own decisions about personal health habits.

Highway safety, taught by Mr. Sembower and Mr. Joseph Maslak, consisted of classroom instruction regarding traffic laws, safety and driver responsibilities. Emphasis on Pennsylvania's current drunk-driving laws highlighted the course.

Many sophomores, juniors and seniors elected to take road training, a driving course available to any student with a learner's permit or a driver's license. This course gave each student at least six hours behind the wheel. Completion of both road training and highway safety qualified young drivers for lower auto insurance rates.

Study Area Rotation Covers Vo-Ag

Vocational agriculture featured a three-year rotation of specialization in the facets of agribusiness, plant science and animal science. Sophomores, juniors and seniors all studied the yearly concentration in the agricultural field during the school term. This three-tiered program combined construction and maintenance work with computer-assisted management. In addition to individual projects in ag shop, visits to local farms and field trips provided students with insight and instruction in the fields of farm management, soil conservation and dairy farming. Participation in competitive judging in county, district and state events required much preparation. Students received guidance in leadership, sale promotion, public speaking and parliamentary procedure from their instructor, Mr. Arnold Wilson.

Vo Ag offered its students a chance to explore their potential in the diverse applications that a farming community can offer.

Work-Study Means Learn By Doing

Work-Study incorporated hands-on experience in the work force with academic training in the classroom. This offering allowed students to use their capabilities in determining their courses. Development of the student's repertoire in preferred areas was the goal.

Every morning students participated in on-the-job training at local businesses, where they took on the demands and rewards of a job. They received grades from their employers based on their performance. An understanding of the working world was realized by each student involved in the program.

Students spent their afternoons furthering their basic education in the classroom. The course included English, math, science and history.

The work-study program blended the traditional education of the classroom with a modern approach to the working world, equipping students to compete in job placement and the work force.

Shop Skills Are Varied & Practical

The industrial arts department aimed at developing manual skills through familiarity with tools and machines. Courses consisted of small gas engines, woodworking, metal shop and drafting. Students learned by doing. Hands-on experience reinforced classroom theory. Interaction between students and teacher provided vital learning experiences.

Individual projects provided a means of bringing newly acquired classroom knowledge to the real world. Projects showed the enthusiasm of industrial arts students, who also contributed to school maintenance and repair through cooperation with custodians and teachers. Furniture and equipment in many classrooms attest to their skill.

Small gas engines taught principles of internal combustion engines. Understanding of and practice in manufacturing processes and metal working was the aim of metal shop. Students of woodworking classes designed and assembled projects ranging from gun cabinets to storage chests. Drafting encouraged students in the proper use of drafting instruments as well as in the development of skill and accuracy in drawing. Students also had the opportunity to try their hands at creating blueprints for family dwellings.

Students Prepare For Family Life

Home and family studies consisted of foods, clothing, home management and child development.

Foods I covered basic principles of nutrition, meal planning and food preparation. Reinforcing Foods I, Foods II moved on to creative cookery. Foods III provided study and practice in hospitality and entertainment, including foreign menus.

Students in Clothing I learned about basic construction procedures. Clothing II students mastered intermediate clothing construction skills. In Clothing III students used advanced styling techniques to design and construct garments and home decorations.

Home management studies included reading and discussion concerning housing, home exteriors and interiors, space, color, design, lighting, furnishings and equipment.

Child development classes introduced students to the enjoyment, complications and responsibilities of raising a preschooler. The highlight of the course was six weeks of nursery school, when area children came into the class for two periods daily to be supervised and instructed by senior high student teachers.

Art & Music Provide Opportunities

Many creative students perfected their talents and stretched their limits by electing art and music. Besides regular classroom activities such as painting, sketching, pottery, sculpting and weaving, art students often helped with such things as making props and painting scenery for plays put on by other students. They also got a chance to help with decorations for dances and bulletin boards in school as well as in the community.

Classroom projects displayed student achievements at November's Open House. Many student works qualified for display at Dressler Art Center, where they were judged by professional artists. Field trips to several art institutes provided a look at career opportunities in art.

Music lessons provided advancement in individual performance as well as preparation for programs by chorus, band, jazz band and specialty groups.

Physical Fitness And Nutrition Add

Improving overall physical fitness was the goal of the phys ed instructors. An addition this year was the expanded weight room, under the instruction of Strength Trainer Mr. Ted Hagans. For six weeks each class worked with Mr. Hagans learning the proper way to handle weights and to enjoy themselves while doing it.

During the rest of the year the girls concentrated on working for the physical fitness award and learning the techniques and scoring of bowling. They also improved coordination and listening skills through square dancing. Racquetball rules and scoring led the way to competition in class matches.

Boys covered units on physical fitness tests, handball, whiffle ball and battle ball. Tournaments in these games fostered sportsmanship and team competition.

The phys ed department combined exercise, weight control and nutrition units to develop awareness of the need to maintain fitness throughout life.

Spectators at basketball games and wrestling matches found a bonus this season when Student Council sold pizza at the student store as a fundraiser.

In November Somerset's chapter of SADD set up a booth at North Star High School for an all-day Student Council conference. Also in November in honor of American Education Week, the Council entertained teachers at a tea, where each received a little red school house toothpick holder.

Adding to the Christmas season, the club chose secret pals from the faculty. At the end of the gift-giving week, both teachers and students enjoyed a tea. Council again provided for and decorated the school Christmas tree.

On Valentine Day, the annual carnation sale was a success. For the first time council offered a computer dating service for students. Applicants answered standard questions and then were matched with ten other people interested in the same activities.

Joining Sponsor Mr. Scott Balsley was new adviser Mrs. Susan Kinsinger.

Staff Members Attend Seminars At

Before the school year began, members of the Eaglet staff worked to get a head start on the yearbook. In August Co-Editors Staci Geary and Amy Shaffer attended the Taylor Yearbook Seminar with four other staff editors: Kerri Ash, Maria Croyle, Michelle Poggi and Kandi Watkins. They left Seven Springs workshop with an Honorable Mention for their work and fresh ideas for the 1987 Eaglet.

In September fifteen staff members traveled to Pitt University to attend the Herff Jones Yearbook Seminar, where they learned about setting up a yearbook to make it more appealing and memorable.

Staff members put together their own plans with the ideas they had received at the seminars. Thirty-nine staff members met deadlines by assigning and taking pictures, writing stories and captions and preparing layouts to bring the 1987 Eaglet to their readers.

Eaglet Business Staff Spearheads

Co-Managers Joni Harkcom and LuAnn Rozinsky never had a dull moment as they led the Eaglet Business Staff. Members managed the yearly senior magazine sales campaign as well as the annual yearbook subscription sales. They also collected patron listings from area businesses and professionals to help finance the Eaglet's publication.

The motto, "87 is at the top and won't be stopped" set the mood for a successful magazine sales campaign. Total sales came to $42,553.80, only a few dollars short of topping the class of 1986. Top sales homeroom 132, encouraged by Mr. Arnold Wilson, enjoyed the traditional turkey dinner after raking in $5,470.05. The second highest sales homeroom was Mrs. Mary Ann Jock's 201, who fell short of 132 by mere dollars. For their efforts they had the pleasure of serving the banquet. Karen Marteeny was Number One Salesman of 1987 with a total of $1,734.10.

Business staff members helped distribute the 1987 Eaglet in September.

New Publishing Format Revitalizes

In October the senior Eagles Echo staff displayed their new outlook. No longer on newspaper print, it was now published on quality paper. Improvement in size, print style and format also created the new look. Printers of the 1987 Eagles Echo were the Hartco Printing Company of West Jefferson, Ohio.

Newspaper staffers aimed for more in-depth coverage of student affairs. Not only did they include school affairs, but also provided insights into community and world affairs as well. Complete sports reporting included action-packed photos.

Under Mrs. Anne Sonnet's supervision the Eagles Echo received a second place rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. This was Mrs. Sonnet's first full year with the newspaper. When asked the secret of producing a fine periodical, Editor-in-Chief Duane Deskevich replied, "It's quite simple. We just have a staff with a tremendous amount of professionalism."

Club Carols At Community Hospita

The election of Spanish Club officers kicked off the year. Led by President Dan Onstead, Vice President Tony Zanoni, Secretary Jenny Irwin and Treasurer Todd Pinkham, the club sponsored a yard sale and several dances to help finance a summer trip.

Spanish Club asked for participation from all Spanish students to help in the celebration of National Foreign Language Week. Many members and non-members entered the poster and cartoon contest. The winners were First Place Jennifer Wright, Second Place Jenny Irwin and Third Place Kelly Kaiser.

As a community service project, Spanish Club members toured the Somerset Community Hospital during the Christmas season to entertain patients with carols in English and Spanish. After the carol sing members entertained themselves with a Christmas party.

Disney World, Epcot Center Prove

As the year ended, French Club members paused to recall club activities. The traditional M&M's sale was a hit. Tina Betta and Vicki Hanks were top salesmen. This year's profit helped club members have fun in the sun in Orlando, Florida.

The annual French Club dinner took place at the high school. As usual, Mme. Sherren tried to push the escargots. Also featured on the menu were quiche, salad and ice cream with strawberries.

National Foreign Language Week presented new ideas this year. All of the foreign language students created their own version of a Garfield or Care Bear cartoon. Prize winners displayed originality and proficient use of the language.

The main event of the French Club year was their trip to Florida. The group visited Epcot Center, Disney World and Wet-n-Wild. On their return trip they stopped at the Kennedy Space Center.

Club Attends National Convention

In July German Club members attended the national AASG convention in Indiana. Others helped with the Dressler Arts Center Somerfest.

Frau Showers' home was the scene of their Oktoberfest. A group attended the Western Pennsylvania AASG convention, where they performed several numbers, which earned them one first place and two second place awards.

After a successful gummi bear sale, they presented Christmas gifts to the Children's Aid Home. During National Foreign Language Week the club awarded prizes in a poster and cartoon contest. Later they enjoyed an outing at Warner's German Restaurant.

After a final picnic at Laurel Hill State Park, several members made plans to attend the 1987 national AASG convention in St. Louis.

As Geary Qualifies For Nationals

Thirty-five members of the forensics team started their work early in the year. Members chose their pieces for competition, practicing once a week with their new advisor Mrs. Laura Gordon.

In January the team traveled to Blacklick for their first meet, where they earned second place. On January 30 they received third place at Ferndale. At Westmont on February 20 they earned another second place.

In March the team attended districts at St. Francis College. Five members were first round winners. In the finals Staci Geary received second place, which qualified her for states and nationals in dramatic interpretation. Dawn Criswell qualified for states with sixth place in poetry interpretation. The team placed eighth out of twenty-four.

Later the group attended Mansfield University's Speech Competition, where they placed third. Six individuals placed, led by Amy Shaffer's first in prose and Marybeth Weaver's second in informative speech.

Southern Flight Adds Spice To April

Students in Mrs. Roberta Antram's English classes made up the English Club. During the fall and winter members sponsored dances in order to pay for their spring field trip. To highlight this year, club members set their sights on the warm, sunny beaches of Orlando, Florida. They decided to travel by plane, which was a new experience for many. The trip kicked off with a bus ride on April 2 to the Washington National Airport in Washington, D.C. From there, the group flew to Florida, where they enjoyed the tropical surroundings of Orlando.

The group spent Friday sightseeing at Epcot Center and Saturday romping through the Magic Kingdom. On Sunday they visited the Kennedy Space Center at Cape Canaveral before boarding a plane to Baltimore, Maryland. In the early hours of Monday, April 6, a busload of tired but happy students returned to Somerset with stacks of photographs, bags of souvenirs and many irreplaceable memories.

Mu Alpha Thetans Compete At IUP

Visions of cubital parabolas and definite integrals danced in the heads of many Mu Alpha Theta members. In their first group activity an informal induction ceremony in early November kicked off the year's activities.

Enrollment in both trigonometry and calculus courses qualified thirty-three seniors and nine juniors for membership, an all-time high for junior enrollment.

The club, headed by Mr. Lou Bruno, read and solved problems in the Mathematical Log, a magazine distributed by the organization's national headquarters. Members also took part in the National High School Mathematics exam and competed in contests sponsored by Indiana University of Pennsylvania and other area universities.

Through these activities students sharpened their mathematical skills while enlivening their quest for the understanding of higher mathematics.

Snowshoe Resort Challenges Sk

Waking up on a clear, crisp morning with temperatures in the single digits and hitting the slopes was the preferred lifestyle of Ski Club members. This year the Ski Club organized in the senior high under the direction of Mr. Robert Sembower.

The group went to Hidden Valley on five Thursday evenings. Also, members of the group planned a trip to Snowshoe, West Virginia. The skiers left on Friday, March 6, and returned on Sunday, March 8. The trip consisted of demanding skiing all day Saturday and Sunday. The most challenging highlight of the trip was a mile-long slope called Cupp Run. Mr. Sembower commented that conditions were excellent for spring skiing. Evening activities consisted of eating in various restaurants, spending time in game rooms, and attending a teen dance. Upon their return home members began considering a trip to Vermont next year.

Twelve FBLA Members Qualify For

On May 3 in Lancaster Carolyn Hoffman and Debbie Stephens placed third in the state in Business Management team competition. Other members of FBLA who qualified for states were LuAnn Rosinsky, Brenda Shaffer, Mike Engleka, Patty Makay, Tina Baer, Pam Johnson, Wendy Walker, Mark Stahl, Terri Rogers and Lynette Lazer. Eighteen members also attended Regionals at Bedford on March 14, where they received certificates for participating in competition.

In a fundraiser the club members sold cheese and sausage, grossing three thousand dollars. With the proceeds from the sale, the club enjoyed a trip to Kennywood Park on May 9. FBLAers also received T-shirts to show their active status in the club.

The purpose of FBLA is to promote business education through participation in class and out-of-school activities.

Club Donates Fruit To Food Pantry

Twenty-two members of Tri-Hi-Y met once a month. In order to finance their community projects, the club sponsored several after-game dances. At Christmas they gave a fruit basket to the Children's Aid Home. They also donated fruit to the Food Pantry at Trinity Lutheran Church. Diane Kimmel and Laura Miller assisted in serving Christmas dinner to Somerset Tower residents. The club also donated money to the Food Pantry and the Heart Fund.

In the spring members enjoyed Guest Speaker Manuel Diaz, a representative of the Church of the Brethren. On April 10 the group traveled to Pittsburgh for their annual field trip. While there, they attended a flower show at Phipps Conservatory.

Carolyn Hoffman, elected by the faculty, received the annual Tri-Hi-Y Award.

Art Club's year began in October when members enjoyed a hayride and picnic at Bethany Church Grove.

At Christmas the club made tray favors for patients at Somerset Community Hospital. In March the club took a trip to the Pittsburgh Art Institute. Members toured the buildings and saw student work. They then asked questions about areas of art such as air brushing, commercial advertising and photography.

Later that month the club hosted an all-school art show in cooperation with the Junior High Art Club. Students from Maple Ridge, Patriot Street and high school classes participated.

Club members also participated in poster contests. They entered a contest sponsored by the Committee on the Employment of the Handicapped, where pieces depicted handicapped individuals in positive work environments. Students also entered the Red Cross Blood Recruitment Poster contest and the VFW Creative Patriotic Art Competition.

FHAers Attend State Convention

At Homecoming observers had a special treat as balloons filled the air during the coronation of the queen. On each balloon an attached note asked the recipient to contact the Somerset FHA to tell where the balloon had landed. The balloon which traveled the farthest was found in New York.

For Christmas the club held a clothing drive, which provided coats and other warm clothing for needy Somerset County children.

In February the club had a successful candy bar sale, which helped provide funds for their trip to the state conference. Twelve members attended the convention in Lancaster on March 18, 19, and 20.

To celebrate National Nutrition Month FHA members hung posters in rooms and halls promoting wise eating habits.

Officers Tina Betta, Tammy Watkins, Mimi Luteri and Tracy Coddington assisted Mrs. Sue Kinsinger in leading club activities.

FFA Members Receive Foundation

Before school started FFA members had already begun their year at the Somerset County Fair. While individuals exhibited livestock on various levels, the club also had a booth display.

Officers and committee chairmen spearheaded the sale of citrus fruit and planned the annual banquet, where individuals received Foundation Awards for their achievements.

FFA basketball players participated in the county league against other vo-ag clubs. They ended in second place, losing their lead to Rockwood in the final game.

A trip to the State Farm Show broke the school routine. The mid-year excursion was fun and educational.

Mark Crissey, Bill Kennell and Tina St. Clair brought pride to the Somerset chapter by winning the highest award possible from the FFA, the Keystone Farmer Degree.

Looking forward to a busy year, YEA used the fall months on money-making projects. They sold M&M's and sponsored several dances. Mrs. Wentz and members of YEA, along with French Club and English Club, flew to Florida in April for four days of beach fun and sightseeing.

At Christmas club members visited Somerset State Hospital to carol for the patients, which they found to be a heartwarming experience.

On April 30 several members of YEA spent a day in cadet teaching. They assisted elementary teachers at Sipesville, Patriot Street, Friedens and Maple Ridge.

A banquet on May 6 in the Seven Springs Char & Grill Room honored senior members. YEA's final successful event of the year was the annual all-day teachers' appreciation tea on May 13. Students enjoyed serving their favorite teachers, and the teachers enjoyed every minute. Mr. Ottis Baer won the contest for most visits to the tea.

Model Legislature Passes AIDS Bill

On April 10 members of the Model Legislature met at the capitol building in Harrisburg, Somerset's delegation directed by new sponsor C. W. Weaver. Preliminary conferences in Claysburg and Indiana had prepared delegates with officers and material for debate. Somerset representatives included Drew Knecht, Sergeant-at-Arms in the Senate, and small business lobbyists Chris Zanoni, Staci Geary and Duane Deskevich.

At the state convention members debated bills such as AIDS control, maternity/paternity leave, revolving credit charges and legalized prostitution. Tony Zanoni and Duane Wong sponsored a bill on mandatory testing for AIDS in married couples. This passed unanimously in both houses.

Zanoni was appointed to a Rules Committee that will establish standards for future Model Legislature conventions.

Record-Breaking Competing Season

As the loudspeaker announced the name of the Somerset Golden Eagle Marching Band at the Johnstown Band Festival, the cheers of the crowd told members that this was the beginning of the best year yet.

Director Herb McDowell stated, "We had a lot of problems at the onset, but they just seemed to disappear." The field show featured the songs "Moorside March," starring the percussion section; "Tico-Tico," "Sun Cat," "I Go to Rio," and "Come In From the Rain." Mike Malley, Jeff Trauba, Andy Mellinger and Dan Boyer performed in solo spots.

Under the leadership of Field Conductors Dave Weaver, Traci McKinley and Karen Ryan, the dance line and percussion placed first at the Shade Band Festival. The band also pulled together to win the first place marching award at Bedford, where the rifles also won Best Rifles over the rest of the field.

Perform; Band Competes In Florida

Under the direction of Mr. Herbert McDowell the Jazz Band entered competition at Westmont, where they received an Honorable Mention. They performed "Brass Machine," with a trumpet solo by Mike Malley; "Fireshaker;" and "Don't Rush It," with solos by Dave Weaver, Alicia Deaner, Drew Knecht and Donnie Ross.

The Orchestra also had one of its best years. The concert on May 14 showed why it had sent seven students to State Orchestra: Laurette Wong, Kelly Sterner, Kellie Felix, Radhika Ghatge, David Reiley, Wendy Stutzman and Andy Mellinger. Reiley went on to All-East Orchestra, the first to do so from Somerset.

The band also scored a first when it traveled to Florida to compete at Disney World. The group returned with trophies for Best Percussion, Best Flags, Best Rifles and Best Marching Band Overall in Parade.

Beach Scene Ends Spring Concer

Joining the singing at Chestnut Ridge High School were Somerset's District Chorus members Dan Boyer, Annette Eisler and John Ernsthausen. Highlighting the concert were "Great Day" and "I Know Where I'm Going," featuring sopranos and altos. As a result of their performance all three Eagle musicians qualified for Regional Chorus at Clearfield. There songs including "Stomp Your Foot" and "Song of Peace," a showcase for tenors and basses, were features.

Many chorus members participated in County Chorus, where John Ernsthausen won first chair bass and Dan Boyer received first chair tenor.

The chorus, directed by Mr. Richard Nicholson, presented two concerts. At Christmas soloists Drew Knecht sang "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas," Dan Boyer, "The Christmas Song," and Annette Eisler, "A Little Child Will Soon Come."

In Mr. Nicholson's final performance with the chorus, a spring concert took place in May, with special effects adding flair. A female quartet sang "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy"; David and Bessie Weaver sang "Somewhere Out There." Synthesizers and drums added to "Best That We Can Be." The grand finale included a Beach Boys' medley in which all the guys, including the director, sported jams and shades.

NHS, Q&S Reward Excellence, Aic

On April 6 NHS hold its induction and reception for new members. The club carried out three successful service projects. The first in November consisted of constructing a window display at Somerset Trust in observance of American Education Week. Scott Baer headed the committee. Another service, spearheaded by Todd Pinkham, was the traditional painting of Christmas windows in the school foyer. The third project was an aluminum can drive. Members saved cans at home and encouraged student participation by hanging posters announcing the event. On a March Sunday the club walked throughout the community, picking cans up where they found them. Twenty-five pounds of cans were collected and recycled. Gary McMasters headed this service project. Mrs. Marjorie Ankney and Mr. Richard Colliver served as society advisers.

For students in the upper third of their class, work on the Eagles Echo or Eaglet staff was the first qualification for acceptance into Quill & Scroll. Newspaper students were required to have fifty inches of printed material published in the Daily American. Yearbook students achieved membership through recommendations of staff editors and adviser. Quill & Scroll's induction took place on May 12. New members participated in the traditional ceremony which included induction, a guest speaker and a reception. Before the ceremony members with parents and guests attended a dinner at Somerset Pine Grill.

Four Eagles Earn Positions On Big

Under the leadership of Head Coach J. Robert Brougher, the Eagles climaxed their season by defeating Central Cambria. With Somerset trailing 15-14 Shawn Urban kicked a game-winning field goal as the clock ticked down the final minutes. The Eagles also treated their fans to a 20-0 shutout against arch-rival North Star and a win against a recent football powerhouse, Ligonier Valley.

Urban, Paul Short, Bill Snyder and Eric Schrock earned positions on the Big Nine All-Stars. On the Southern Alleghenies Coaches Association All-Star team Snyder nabbed Defensive MVP honors, while Urban won the Offensive MVP title.

Coach Joe Maslak's junior varsity dominated all adversaries on their way to an undefeated season. In eight games the junior Eagles tallied 177 points, giving up only 43.

With the close of the 1986 season, Mr. Brougher rounded out a thirty-year coaching career. Coming from Meyersdale, where he served as head coach for eight years, Brougher spent seven years as assistant coach and ten years as head varsity coach at Somerset High.

Eagles Finish Fourth At Districts

Under the stopwatch of Coach John Liska the cross country team enjoyed a successful season. Hours and miles of training endured by team members paid off as they chalked up a 9-4 record, climaxed by a spot in the state meet for Jim Gettinger, who had already set the school's three-mile record at 16:13.

Eight teams competed in the Conference Meet at UPJ, where the Eagles finished second. Later at districts in State College, where the team took fourth out of eight places, Gettinger turned in his qualifying time for states. Jim then traveled to Penn State to run among Pennsylvania's finest.

With five of his top six runners returning next year, Coach Liska has reason for optimism.

Eagles Take Third Spot In District

With no returning varsity lettermen to spark the girls' volleyball team, Coach David Mapes directed the Eagles through a winning season. The squad began the year by competing in the Rockwood Tournament, where they battled the challenging teams of Forest Hills, Bishop McCort and North Star.

In the District VI tournament the team reached the highlight of their season when they finished third among ten places. The Eagles handed defeats to Hollidaysburg, Johnstown and Cambria Heights. "The team finally played as we were capable of doing all season," stated Coach Mapes.

At the close of the season, Eagles stood on an overall record of 12-10-2. In the Tri-County League they accumulated a 7-7 total. All-County honors went to Julie Hemminger, while Angie Tilghman won a second-team berth. Terry Ong received honorable mention.

Miss Wendy Blough coached the junior varsity Eagles through a season of peak performances.

Soccer Eagles Win 6 Spots On First

Something great happened in Cumberland, Maryland, when the varsity boys' soccer team downed Bishop Walsh 2-0, ending a forty-six-game winning streak for the Walsh team. With that game Coach John Spangler's squad won the co-championship of the Bi-State League, climaxing the best season in their history.

Jim Gettinger led the league in scoring with 42 points (16 goals and 10 assists), while Jack Shafer copped second in the league's goals-against average with .71. Shafer, Bryan Rapp, Marc McClintock, Gettinger, Jim Pugh and Terry Beckner made First Team Bi-State honors, while places on the second team went to Jeff Trauba, Mike Law and Roger Pugh.

As the regular season ended, the team competed in District VI, defeating Dubois 10-1. The Eagles then traveled to State College, where they suffered a 2-1 loss in the title match.

Junior varsity banded together to turn out their first undefeated season. High scoring honors belonged to Lenny Lambert with fourteen goals and Mike Geary with thirteen.

Soccerettes Break Season Record

Emerging from their heavy schedule with a record of seventeen wins and only one loss, the girls' soccer team enjoyed the best season in their three-year history. Their lone defeat came from Mt. Lebanon, top team in the Pittsburgh area. Future teams will have a stiff challenge to meet in competing with the standards set by Coach John Better's group.

Offensively, the most goals scored in a season added up to eighty for an average of 4.4 per game. Third-year goalie Becky Weible commanded a strong defense that allowed only fifteen goals in eighteen games, for a sparse .83 per-game percentage. The defense also advanced the record for most shutouts to ten.

Co-Captains Heather Mull and Staci Geary agreed, "Records like ours are few and far between! Hopefully some day there will be state championships or playoffs to reward girls' soccer teams for their work, as there now are for boys' soccer."

Golfers Place First In Inter-County

Competition between two four-year lettermen for top team position highlighted this year's golf season. Randy Chabol and Ted Barndt seesawed between number one and number two all year. Both players golfed consistently, Chabol averaging 81.3 and Barndt ending at 81.6. When questioned about the contest, Chabol commented, "Although it was a tense rivalry, neither of us lost touch with the fact that we were team players there to have a good time."

For the final year the team played under the guidance of retiring Coach Richard Colliver, compiling a record of 8-2-1, as five of the six members on the team averaged in the 80's. Third, fourth and fifth men were Dan Clark (84.6), Doug Berkley (85.6) and Rusty Crimone (86.6). Senior Joe Crimone (91.8), who was also a four-year letter winner, rounded out the team.

9-2 Season Sets School Record

Coach Richard Ross and the girls' tennis team cooperated in making this season their best ever. Led by top seeded Radhika Ghatge and second seeded Beth Jacob, the team propelled themselves to a record of nine wins and two losses. Returning letterman Susan Sujansky and sophomore Jill Deskevich turned in fine performances at third and fourth positions. German exchange student Carola Rathke also contributed to the team in fifth seeded position. The remaining team members formed a stable backbone for the group, promising that next year's team should follow the winning pattern.

Four members qualified for District VI playoffs. Senior Beth Jacob and sophomore Radhika Ghatge took part in singles competition, while the combined forces of Ghatge-Jacob and the sister combination of Sue and Sandy Sujansky qualified for the district doubles competition.

Basketeers Use Outside Shooting

"You live from the perimeter; you die from the perimeter!" roared Coach Sam Crouse as his team practices included a constant barrage of thirty-foot shots. On any given night the team had the capability of completely dominating a game through its ability to scorch the nets from long range. However, if their touch weakened, defeat — sometimes a cliff-hanger, sometimes a humiliation — seemed sure to follow. Luckily, the cagers had more nights in the former category than in the latter.

Leading the outside bombardment were Seniors Jeff Trauba and Randy Christner, with Juniors Andy Rush and Mike Sube. Rush surpassed his 1000-point career mark during the second Cambria Heights game.

Ron Fait, Rob Fatula and Mike Moore often had to score from the outside as well as from under the basket. This balanced scoring attack showed as the team averaged 77 points per game over the final six games.

Weible And Lambert Earn Positions

New attitudes and spirit kept the girls basketball team thriving this past season. The varsity team, headed by Coach Karen Nussrallah and Assistant Coach Natalie Barnhart, ended the season with eleven wins and thirteen losses.

The junior varsity team under Coach Barnhart ended its season with an impressive 18-4 record. This tally handed the JV team the Tri-County championship.

The Rockwood Tournament provided a thrill for fans as the Eagles took the consolation game by defeating Northern 51-27. Two members of the team, Anita Lambert and Becky Weible, received recognition at a luncheon held at Ramada Inn. The Somerset Exchange Club honored athletes who had won places on the All-Somerset County Teams.

This season opened eyes for what the future has in store. With three returning letter winners: Weible, Genifer Saylor, and Dale Ann Schrock and an experienced JV squad, next season promises much for the Lady Eagles.

Mitchell Repeats As Mt. Cat MVP

When a wrestler steps out onto the mat alone, he can receive no help from his team except moral support. However, his win or loss belongs not only to him, but also to the team.

Although the Eagle grapplers boasted a team record of 11-6 for the 1986-87 season, individual accomplishments dominated the wrestling scene.

Senior Scott Mitchell sported the best overall record with 23-3-2. He won in the Mountain Cat Tournament for the third year and captured its MVP award for the second year in a row. He also won first place in the Mt. Pleasant tournament.

Newcomer Andy Sullivan held back nothing in compiling his 22-8 record. In doing so, he earned a trip to the state competition by capturing third place in the Northwest Regionals.

Other outstanding records belonged to sophomores Aldo Betta (21-6) and Mike Geary (12-3) and to junior Luke Sredy (18-3).

On March 21 Strength Coach Ted Hagans accompanied a group of fourteen weightlifters to a competition held at Central Cambria High School. Somerset's representatives impressed the field of over ninety participants by placing seven lifters in the top three of each weight class.

Bill Tokar, Bill Stoy, Paul Short and Cary Gross all placed first in their weight classes. Randy Chabol and Scott McGonigle captured second place awards and Ed Custer earned a third place rating. Bill Tokar came away with the Outstanding Lifter award by totaling 1,000 pounds.

Paul Short advanced to the American Drug Free Powerlifting Association High School National Championships in Potomac, MD, where he placed first in a field of one hundred of the United States' top lifters.

Eagles Soar To Tri-County Title

After four years of waiting Coaches Robert Mayer and William Kessen finally reached their highest goal, the Tri-County League championship. By winning their section with an 11-1 record, the team earned a chance at the title. The Eagles disposed of Laurel Valley, their first opponent in the league play-off in one short game. Next came a three-game series against Bishop Carroll. The Huskies posed no threat as they fell victim in two straight games, allowing the team to claim its first league championship ever.

The Eagles also competed in District VI play-offs, where they ranked third after defeating Bedford 17-5. But teams hopes for advancement came to an abrupt end as they lost to State College 1-0.

The junior varsity team, under Coach Steve Costea, continued to make progress as they competed against Somerset County varsity teams.

Boys Tennis Team Finishes League

Though their record did not show their true ability, Somerset's varsity boys tennis team played with character and dignity throughout the season against great odds. Led by Captain Darrell Klotz, they turned in an overall record of 5-6 and a league record of 4-4. Klotz led the team with an individual record of 6-5. Other team lettermen were Steve May (4-7), Duane Deskevich (2-7), Jeff Reeping (6-4), Chip Fike (1-1) and Brad Keim (2-7). Members of the team who won JV letters were Todd Pinkham, Eric Bowlin, Tom Aultz, David Barbera, Neil Hoffman, Rusty Crimone, Pat Rohlf and Mark Sanders.

Williamson, Weible Pace Team Hits

The 1987 girls softball team had a trying season. The transfer of the team to a new division posed a serious challenge to its members. Returning senior letter winners Diane Kimmel and Karen Cebula kept spirits high during turbulent times.

Although the team's record wasn't outstanding, fans noted much improvement toward the end of the season. With patience and support from Head Coach Karen Nussrallah and Assistant Sally Maust the girls learned from their mistakes.

Underclassmen Janet Williamson and Becky Weible proved themselves valuable team players. In the Windber game Williamson totaled two runs, four RBI's, two stolen bases, and still managed to crank out a home run. Weible recorded three runs, three hits and one stolen base in a heated game with Conmaugh Township.

A combination of hard work, dedication and talent promised next year's team a more successful season.

Cindermen Smash School Records

Coach Dave McCall continued his winning ways by directing the 1987 team to an impressive 12-1 record. Led by outstanding seniors, the squad broke four school records in the distance events. The Eagles took first spot in the Somerset County Meet and the Mountain Conference Relays and placed second in the Mountain Conference Meet and the Somerset Invitational.

Dan Hoffman, who paced the team in total points, dominated the mountain conference in all three throwing events. A first-time trackster, Marc McClintock, did an excellent job by winning the District 6 triple jump. He attended the state championships at Shippensburg after winning districts. Eric Schrock also had a fine season during which he broke two school records in the mile and two-mile events. He lowered the mile mark to 4:32 and the two mile mark to 9:53. He also ran on the record (8:25) two-mile relay team.

Sheeler, Svonavec, Hoffman Break

A talented group of newcomers added to a strong core of returning letter winners allowed the 1987 girls track team to maintain a record established by teams from the previous two years. Much of the winning season was due to the versatility of team members.

High point scorer Annette Miller consistently took first place in the high, long and triple jumps. Duana Sheeler broke her former record in the javelin by over ten feet. Lynn Svonavec also broke her own discus record by a large margin. Seasoned veteran Julie Hoffman smashed her 800 meter record while also anchoring both the 1600 and 3200 meter relays.

Ensure Smooth-Running Programs

Once again the matmaids and court queens proved hard-working and faithful assistants to the wrestling and basketball squads. Both groups showed service, spirit and dedication. Matmaids spent hours ensuring that wrestling matches would run smoothly for both the team and their fans. This group of girls spent their time announcing Eagle grapplers at dual meets, manning the video camera, cleaning mats, distributing pins, designing posters and preparing the gym for competition.

Court queens supported the JV and varsity teams all season. Their duties included making locker signs and posters for the foyer, keeping the team score book and recording individual statistics for both JV and varsity players. They also showed spirit by conducting parents' night ceremonies and cheering at home and away games.

Cheerleaders Diversify To Cover Heavy Schedule Of Winter Sports

Under the direction of Adviser Cindy Brant a combined squad of varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders participated in the ICF Cheerleading Camp in June. They returned with second place honors in the championship competition. Ten varsity and ten junior varsity cheerleaders prepared for football. During the fall decorating the locker room, painting signs and cheering kept them busy.

With the end of football season the girls broke into a wrestling squad and a basketball squad. After winter tryouts seven new cheerleaders won places among the individual squads, which shared cheering assignments for girls basketball. Wrestling and basketball squads cheered three nights a week.

Meanwhile, the junior varsity also divided into two squads, which covered girls and boys basketball and wrestling.

Varied colors blended
In the completion
Of the year.
The kaleidoscope
Focused differently
For all.
But common shades
Were there.
As we sign out,
One thing remains:
The wall we have created
Will stand as a mark
Of our passing.
